Too Hondest by Hair.

Too be mathematically precise W. S. Cleveland is exectly too modest by half. He announces a double show, when he has a quadrupie one by his own statement. The combination of his massive minutries consist of first, a white minutries show; second, a troupe of gennies black minutries, "blacked up by Nature" with a color warranted not to wash off; third a Japanese troupe; fourth, a tribe of Arabs. There you are—four abover—and we reiterate, Cleveland is too modest by half, and has under his management four full eited complete shows instead of two, and when they come to towa, heralded by two brass bands and a fife and drum corps, they make the people open their syes and pocket-books. Clevelands ascens is partly accounted for by his consession partly and the countries of the country of the consession partly accounted for by his consession partly and the countries of t cess is partly accounted for by his con-stantly keeping in touch with capital. of the Masson Circuit Court, renders the following decision:
Appellant brought suit on a note executed by appellee to Amanda Mers for $500, which is alleged to have been assigned to appellant in and the lower court gave judgment for appellee.

The only question properly before the jury was as to the assignment and ownership of the note. It is proven beyond question that appellant bought the note; that it was assigned to him that he borrowed the money to pay for it and did pay for it. It seems to us the verdict is not sustained by any evidence. It may be that appellee, if he pays this debt, can recover the same from the administrator of W. T. Dye. We do not decide he is without remedy if the facts are as alleged by him.

THE SON OF A PREACHER.

And a Son-of-a-Gun Also in th Knife-Swapping Business.

Bowling Green boasts of possessing the champion kuffe-swapper. He is a little boy, son of a Preacher, and this is record as given by his father:

"That boy, not many months since, worried me till I bought him a kuffe. Like a boy, he left it out one night and it got rusty. Then he ion interest in it and began at once to awap it off. Well, the little rascal has naturally a knack for trading, and, sir, he took that rusty kuffe, and with a little work on it and a good deal of talking, he succeeded in exchanging it for two kurives. These kuives in turn he traded for three knives, worked considerably on them and got a cheap watch for the three. He kept trading uith he had concluded forty-seven different bargains, most of them in his favor. At the end of the forty-seventh trade he owned a shotgun, a hound puppy, two jackknives and sixty-five cents in money, besides other small trinkets too numerous mention. There's nothing like it."
